For the erection of 100 cottages, the Brogan Cotton Mill has awarded to J. E. Barton, of this city, the contract for supplying the lumber. Fielding Fant, who lived about six miles from the city on the Fair's Bridge Road, committed suicide last Monday morning. Monday he put the muzzle of his gun under his chin and managed to kill himself instantly. He was a good man and citizen. The state of his health accounts for his tragic end. In the Presbyterian cemetery at Pendleton, Wednesday afternoon last, was interred the remains of one of the oldest and most highly respected citizens of this County, Colonel Carver Randall. He was 82 years old, ripe in Christian endeavor and ready for the conqueror who knows no defeat—death. The wife, but no children, survives him. Dr. A. P. Johnstone, of this city, was the surgeon. He was a nephew of the deceased. For more than 60 years Colonel Randall was a member and ruling elder in the Presbyterian Church and accomplished in his life all that could have been desired as an example for the generations which grew up about him. The deceased was a native of Newberry County, but moved to Pendleton nearly half a century ago.

At a meeting of the Board of Trustees of the city schools held Monday for the purpose of electing teachers the following was the result: Central School, J. W. W. Daniels, principal, E. C. McClellan, Misses Isabel Wicker, DuBoss, Nell Cochran, Eleanor Cochran, Emily Divver, Ellen Gordon, May Russell, Nora Hubbard and Zula Brock. There are two vacancies in this school. At Millville, John W. Linley, principal, and Misses Lottie Crosby and Ewie Lewis. At the colored school all of the former teachers were elected, the only change being the election of Miss Margaret Miller, sister of Mrs. Dr. Earle, of this city, as supply teacher. There was an enrollment in the schools during the session just closed of 1,500 pupils, over 1,000 of which were white. The Trustees adjourned to meet at the call of the Chairman.

The laying of the Corner Stone of the Central Presbyterian Church took place last Monday at 12 o'clock. The ceremonies were conducted by Hiram Lodge, A. F. M., with Worshipful Master T. C. Walton presiding, and assisted by the pastors of all the churches of the city and several pastors from churches from outside of the city. The ceremonies were impressive and instructive, full of good cheer, encouragement and congratulation, and were witnessed and listened to by a large gathering of interested citizens. Many beautiful odes were sung by a choir composed of ladies and men from the choirs of the different denominations of the city. A number of short addresses were made which sparkled with words of love and encouragement and friendly interest. A spirit of genuine Christian gladness characterized the ceremonies. As remarked in substance by Rev. Mr. Murchison, it is fitting that, in this day of cotton mill building and commercial enterprise and success in Anderson, a church should be built and dedicated to God. It is indeed gratifying to know that spiritual development is keeping pace with industrial and commercial development in this rapidly growing city. The program of these ceremonies, as published last week, was carried out, except that Rev. J. D. Chapman and Rev. William Brown could not be present. Rev. T. P. Lide, of Pendleton, and Rev. L. E. Campbell, pastor of the Long Branch Baptist Church, were present and delivered short but highly pleasing and encouraging addresses. In laying the Corner Stone of the historic Lafayette trowel was used. It is of sterling silver, with ivory handle, and its history dates back to 1825, when it was first used by Lafayette in laying the Corner Stone of the monument erected to the Baron De Kalb, who was the friend and companion-in-arms of Lafayette. On the occasion of the laying of the Corner Stone of the Masonic Temple and the Confederate Soldiers' Monument this trowel was used. Many ribbons attached to the handle of this trowel indicate the many similar occasions on which it has been used. In the Corner Stone of the Central Presbyterian Church were placed: Roll of officers and members of the different churches of the city, roll of officers and members of the Central Presbyterian Church and Sunday School, by classes, and members of the ladies' societies of the church, manual of the city schools, 1899-1900, copies of the newspapers published in the city, roll of officers and members of Hiram Lodge, A. F. M., Masonic apron, program of the ceremonies on this occasion and roll of the City Council and employees.

For the State Senate.

Editors Intelligencer: The people are very much concerned as to who will be the candidates for the State Senate. People who have visited the city for the last few days with wonderful unanimity have centered upon Mr. Jno. K. Hood as a suitable candidate for this important position. Mr. Hood is well known as a progressive, wide-awake and liberal citizen and may be depended upon to represent with credit the people of this thriving section of the State.

It is understood that Mr. Hood is opposed to entering politics, but he is hereby earnestly requested to consent and enter the race.

We chronicle the death of our much beloved and esteemed friend, Col. Carver Randall. He died at 1 o'clock Tuesday, May 27th, and was buried at the Presbyterian Church Wednesday at 5 o'clock p. m. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. W. T. Strickland the pastor. Truly a good man has gone to rest. Dr. A. P. Johnstone, wife and son, attended their uncle's funeral. Capt. Evans, Mrs. Evans and Mrs. Virginia Hammond of Anderson, also were present.
